Having built many backyard projects ourselves, we understand the importance of having the ability to customize projects to meet the demands of your customers. While our standard products are designed to accommodate the majority of designs, we can also customize those products or create unique, one-of-a-kind pieces just for you.

Custom projects always start with a detailed drawing or picture from you. From there, our design team will create CAD drawings and 3-D renderings of the project for your approval. Once approved, we will quote the project based on final specifications and provide an estimated lead time for completion.

We have built custom projects for many customers, from outdoor kitchen cabinets, fire pits, and fireplaces, to custom benches and columns, so let your imagination run wild. If you can dream it for the backyard, we can build it. To start the process for your custom project, send us your ideas to designs@rtfsystems.net.
